

MALE NEWSCASTER (ON TV) (V.O.)

In the five bombing incidents, four people, including one minister, were killed with several others seriously injured.

ON TELEVISION

The Newscaster continues his report:

MALE NEWSCASTER (ON TV)

Luckily, all the churches were not in worship service when the bombings occurred... Now, here's our weatherman to tell us about our weather and why it's been bad, lately.

BACK TO SCENE - RICHARD LIVING ROOM

Bewildered, Kevin turns to Walter for an answer.

KEVIN

Why would someone wanna bomb a church, Daddy?

WALTER

Because he's sick!

KEVIN

From something he ate?

WALTER

That kind of sickness you don't get from food. Who knows? Everybody's got an opinion. That's one thing the world will never run out of, -- opinions.

KEVIN

Why can't people get along?

WALTER

They're afraid of people who look different from them.

KEVIN

Babies don't ask to be born and they don't know how God's gonna make 'em. Underneath the skin, we're all the same. If parents would just leave the kids alone, the world would be a lot better off. Adults always mess everything up. Why is that, Daddy?

WALTER

That's the way of the world, son.

KEVIN

I'm not looking forward to growing up.

KYLE

You can't stay a kid all your life; you'll get stepped on.

WALTER

Everybody tries to run a game on you. You've gotta outsmart them.

KEVIN

I thought you said God told us to love everybody!

KYLE

You can't!

WALTER

You can't because people won't let you.

KEVIN

(disgusted)

I wish I lived in a children's world!

WALTER

Sometimes I wish I did too, son.

Dodie enters. She crosses to Walter and plants a kiss.

DODIE

Hi, everybody!

WALTER

What are you so cheerful about?

DODIE

I got a surprise for you!

With a big smile, she stands there about to burst from excitement.

Waiting, Walter peers over his glasses at her.

WALTER

Well?... What you waitin' on?
Let's have it!

KYLE You're pregnant!

KEVIN (stunned)
Pregnant? I'm too young to be an uncle!!

DODIE
Very funny!
(to Walter)
The surprise isn't an "it." It's a "him," and he's waiting to meet you. He's on the porch.

WALTER
Then, tell him to come on in!

DODIE
(calls out)
Mama, come here for a minute!

Barbara comes in, wiping her hands on a dish towel.

BARBARA
What's goin' on?

Dodie MUTES the TV volume, then, extends her left hand.

DODIE
I'm engaged!

Barbara audibly GASPS. Shocked, Walter removes his glasses.

WALTER
Engaged?! I didn't even know you had a boyfriend!

BARBARA
That's right! We've never even met him, Dodie.

DODIE
I was scared you wouldn't like him.

WALTER
He's supposed to come talk to me first. He's gotta ask permission.

DODIE
People don't do that anymore,
Daddy. That's old-fashioned.

BARBARA
Does this boy have a job?

DODIE
He's a medical student, Mama.

Walter buries his head behind the newspaper.

WALTER
Thanks for telling us! We'll be invited to the wedding, I suppose!

He puts the newspaper down.

WALTER (CONT'D)
Well, -- bring him on in. I guess
I should meet my future son-in-law.

Dodie exits. Barbara hurriedly tidies up the room, as:

BARBARA
Might be kind of nice to have a doctor in the family.

KEVIN
He'll be our doctor? For free?

KYLE
Nobody does nothin' for free.

Dodie returns...

DODIE
Everybody, I want you to meet my fiance and future husband, Andre --

Dodie stretches out her arm toward the doorway:

DODIE (CONT'D)
Andre Shigetomi!!

ANDRE SHIGETOMI, 26, and Japanese, enters. Dodie and he affectionately lock arms. He speaks perfect English.

ANDRE
I'm honored to meet you all!

WALTER, BARBARA, KYLE AND KEVIN

are more than stunned. Their jaws drop, mouths, frozen-open.

KYLE

Looks angry.
